

SHEMEKA BRATHWAITE

LEADERSHIP PRODUCTIVITY EXPERT | TRAINER | COACH

KEYNOTE

Productive Presence:

The Catalyst of Transformative Performance

The current workplace demand a new perspective on delivering organizational goals despite having limited staff, time, and resources for in-person or remote operations. This program will teach participants how to focus on the following:

- Establishing productivity systems that leverages time and energy effectively to achieve goals.
- Communicate, collaborate, and connect with others to motivate them to operate at their optimal best and deliver peak performance.
- Transform a worried, overwhelmed, and worn out executive presence to one that is captivating and influential.

A full listing of program descriptions is available.

BIO

Shemeka Brathwaite, MEd is often invited by organizations, associations, and educational institutions to provide inspiring professional development programs. Her dynamic messages are the result of her background as an award-winning professional spoken word artist and storyteller. Shemeka holds a Master's in Adult Education and Human Resource Development from Fordham University. Shemeka completed Harvard University's Women in Education Leadership certificate program and is also a certified life coach through New York University. Currently, Shemeka is a doctoral student in the Community-Based Organizational Leadership program at the College of Staten Island.

Thank you for putting together a keynote so keenly targeted to our audience! There were so many actionable points, and that's what we wanted to send people home with."

Marjolijn Bijlefeld, Meeting Planner, Women in Optometry Leadership Summit

BOOK SHEMEKA FOR YOUR UPCOMING EVENT!

Email: info@shemekabrathwaite.com | Phone: 516-531-7311 | www.ShemekaBrathwaite.com